Q: Error while creating a list and saving it into MongoDB I have a JSON string, which I want to convert into a List and save that object into MongoDB. When I create a list, it compiles but when I try to save the list to the DB it gives me this error: Error while processing: { "_id" : ObjectId("56bf8ab597c818d9f924f972"), "value" : ["0.00"] } Here is the code: var bytes = Encoding.UTF8.GetBytes(data); var stream = new MemoryStream(bytes); var str = new JsonTextReader(new StreamReader(stream)).ReadAsStringAsync(); var content = JsonConvert.DeserializeObject>(str); db.products.insertOne({ _id: data, value: [content] }); What I want to achieve is that when my app starts, this list is created and saved on MongoDB. Thanks. A: I just changed "value" to "array.value" and it worked. db.products.insertOne({ _id: data, array.value: [content] }); /* * Copyright (c) 2009, 2012, Oracle and/or its affiliates. Floral development of Redbay (Cajanus cajan L.) after single and double cold treatment. Cold temperature greatly influences the growth and development of plants. It is a consequence of cold that plants are deprived of the energy produced by photosynthesis and must repair cold-induced injuries. Therefore, the regulation of floral development in cold-treated plants is very important. Here, we demonstrated that floral development of Redbay (Cajanus cajan L. cv. "CIM-Bahubali") was inhibited during the 3-week cold treatment. The first evidence of floral development in Redbay plants was the initiation of ovary at day 14. Then, there was an inverse relationship between the mean spikelet numbers on day 28 and day 35 in both single and double cold-treated Redbay plants. Moreover, we observed that cold treatment induced necrosis in the lower leaf whorl of plantlets and floral parts. In addition, we found a lag period of about 4 days before plants commenced flowering. This can be explained by two factors: (i) Induction of apical meristem, thus, allowing for the development of new vegetative buds, and (ii) Expression of two genes, WEE1 and RB1, involved in the regulation of cell division and development during the floral transition.1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to the field of device interface and, in particular, to a system and method of providing a command driven interface which allows a computer to drive arbitrary circuit elements with minimal amount of CPU resources required. 2. Description of the Related Art Efficient performance of a computer system is critically dependent upon the use of peripheral devices through an interface. For many devices, such as certain printers, plotters, scanners and multi-function peripherals, the software used to operate these devices is difficult to tailor to the specific needs of the end user or customer, thereby driving the need for an efficient and flexible computer system. Today, the computer system is typically equipped with a keyboard through which a user enters commands directly. A software program then receives the commands through a command interpreter, which recognizes the commands and converts them to a file protocol which a printer driver understands. In some applications, a command and data stream may be passed through multiple software layers, whereby a command may be recognized at each layer or at one layer and then passed to a lower layer. The data format itself is sometimes difficult for the printer driver to recognize, and therefore, the printer driver is
