Psoriasis is an immune-mediated disease that manifests in the skin. Here, we asked if a similar phenomenon occurs in the oral mucosa. Oral epithelial cells from healthy individuals were treated with various immunosuppressive drugs and assessed by qualitative and quantitative approaches. Statins and methotrexate suppressed epithelial cell proliferation, while cyclosporine had no effect. The immunosuppressive properties of these drugs were confirmed by cell culture experiments in which the drugs induced a similar suppression of the production of interleukin (IL)-1b, IL-6, and IL-8. This is the first report to our knowledge that provides evidence for a similar phenomenon of immunosuppression in the oral epithelium. This phenomenon may have significance for the pathogenesis of oral mucosal diseases such as lichen planus.Q: How can I copy a specific range of a set of cells containing a string to another workbook, add a new line after copying, and then continue copying to the next range of cells? I have a workbook with about 75 worksheets. Each sheet contains a set of cells. The set of cells for each worksheet can change. They all have a unique cell that begins with 'SS' and is all the way down to the 'end of the row' which is always at the end
